Additional information Course Change Request: HMD 151: Food Science

Both FACS and Hospitality use this course as a culinary and food modification course, introducing students to cooking, kitchen math, food processing, and changes to foods through handling.

This did not change in the course revision.

What changed was ONLY the verbiage associated with the requirements of dietetics accreditation. Their accreditation standards had gone through 3 update iterations since the last syllabus/catalog update. In order to prepare for an upcoming accreditation visit, the catalog, outcomes, and syllabus went through updates. Because the course had MORE than a simple change, the course had to go through the entire UCC process which includes landing with the PEC committee.

Our entire curriculum, except for our colonnade courses, went through the same updates and those have been approved by UCC.

In the end, the course is the same course with the same content. Just the language associated with the course and the outcomes were updated.
