

WORKING SMARTER

SENIOR KAITLYN NORRIS SAYS, "In business, we work on simulations and modules. I choose this class because it is in my career path and what I love to do."

IN MRS. SHEENA SEACRY'S CLASS, sophomore Lily Jackson works on her computer to complete an assignment.

FRESHMAN MAGGIE BROWN SAYS, "I like Health Science class because it teaches a lot about how to stay healthy and live a healthy life style. Also it teaches you about your physical and mental health needs."

SENIOR ELLY GREGORY

takes notes during her marketing class in Mrs. Deana Islas's classroom.

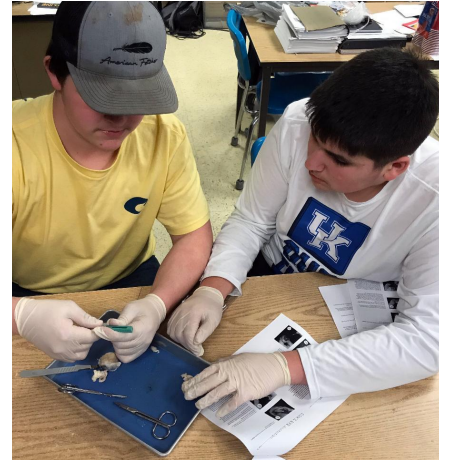

Juniors Brea Farmer and Gael Magana get all their ingredients ready to make their pizza in Culinary II.

Freshman Blake Buckner cuts the wood as he is preparing for his next project.

Freshmen Kobe Crafton and Harrison Massey read the instructions as they are dissecting a reptile.

Seniors Olivia Forshee, Marissa Jones, and Kaylee Shaw, along with freshman Zoe Tucker, show off their floral design centerpieces.

Sparks fly out as freshman Nate Thomas has protective gear on to not injure himself.

Career and Tech classes use a combination of academic and technical skills. Most CTE classes provide students with extensive knowledge and training needed to be successful in that particular field. CTE classes prepare students by introducing them to real-world skills.

This year, the CTE crew added a new class – Floral Design. Mrs. Felicia Dalton teaches the new class, where they regularly make wreaths and flower arrangements.

As a brand new event this year, the CTE building hosted "Santa's Workshop," a four-day program where students could try out different styles of creation. For example, Allie Meador and Mrs. Dyan Wilhite hosted doormat painting while Mr. Jay Shockley helped students build Christmas trees out of wood. Many more shops were held throughout the event, where students of every grade were able to join.

Whether it's Personal Finance, welding, or Sports Marketing, the students of FSHS have many different electives to choose from. There's a class for everybody to join and enjoy.

"I enjoy my elective classes because I am learning different skills everyday that could lead to multiple career pathways in life."

- Jasmine Savage (9)

Senior agriculture students, Elsa Humphrey, Elijah Harrington, Kaylee Shaw, and Harlee Graves, work in the greenhouse for their class.

ALL HANDS ON DECK

Junior Jesse Punzalan and senior Cass Newland take a computer apart in Ms. Allie Meador's class.

In Health Science, sophomore Noah Smith gets his blood pressure checked.

Juniors Alexis Huff, Haley Racine, Paris Boyer, and senior Kayleigh Hinton pose as they present their felt donuts they made in Mrs. Dyan Wilhite's Class.

Career & Tech

Academics

41